

It would appear that the extensive snowdrop woods on Cambo Estate have now become home to those mysterious mythical creatures, the Glingbobs and Tootflits. Windows and doors have appeared in some of the trees and other mysterious wooden objects are to be found along the way. The Tootflits can fly and you'll find windows and doors up in the trees, but the Glingbobs live on the woodland floor so be sure to look down low. They both forage for things to eat - edible fungus is a special treat - see what you can find. They're very curious but terribly shy and certainly no one at Cambo has come across one yet - so look hard all around as you follow the trail and perhaps you'll be the first.

Don't forget to look out too for signs and trails of other animals and birds that live in the woods.

CAMBO STABLES PROJECT

A window on the past - A door to the future

Patron: Sir Tim Smit (Eden Project and Heligan)

Want to know more?

If you would like to know more about us or help please contact us at:

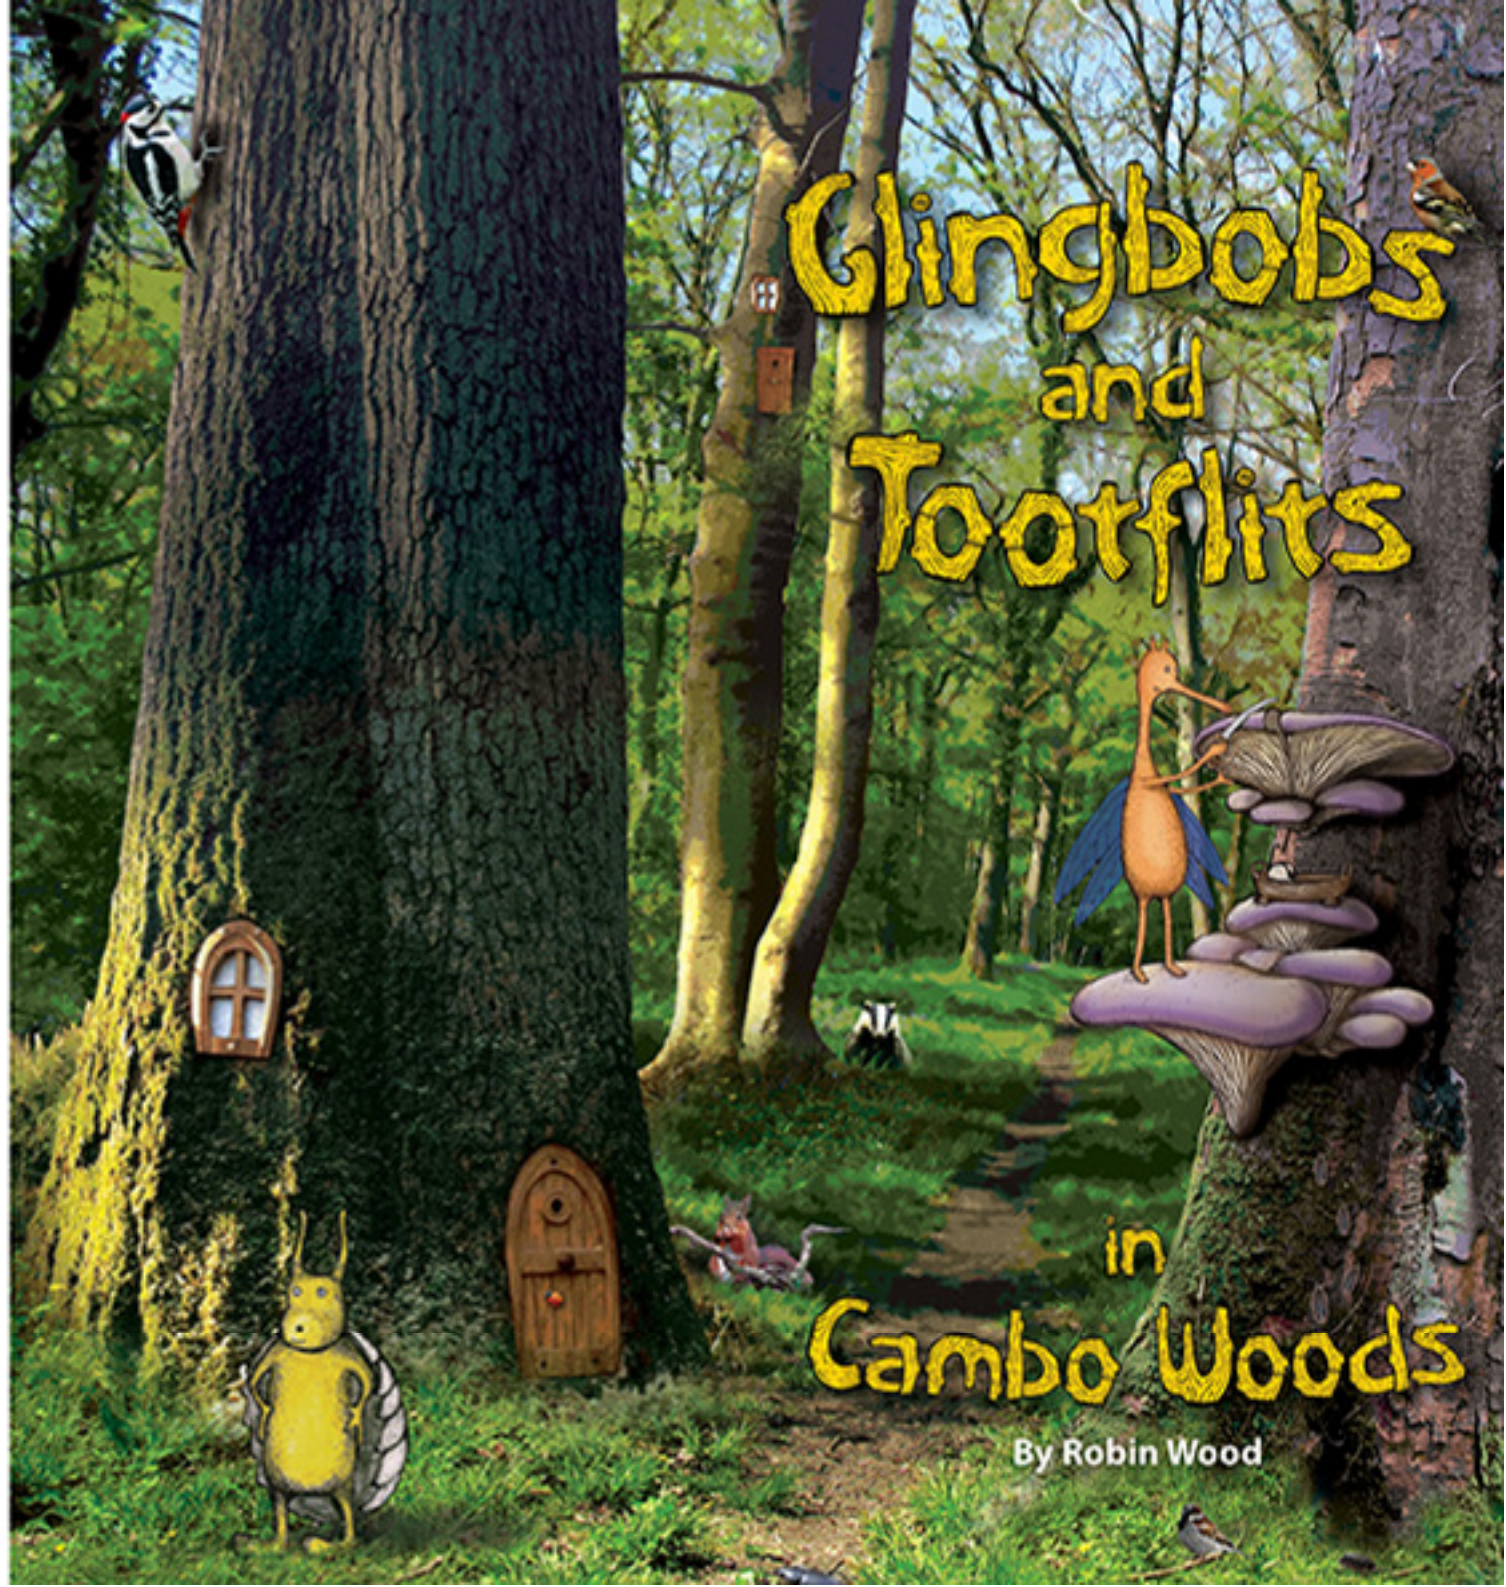

www.camboinstitute.org.uk

Kingsbarns, Near St Andrews KY16 8QD

Cambo Stables Project is a charity registered in Scotland (No. SC028131)

www.facebook.com/CamboStables www.twitter.com/CamboStables

Glingbobs and Tootflits

in Cambo Woods

By Robin Wood

